CHAPTER HOUSE RENOVATION COMPLETE, BUT OUR WORK IS NOT DONE

More Than $1.5 Million Needed to Reach Fundraising Goal

It's a very exciting time at Gamma-Rho Zeta! The actives moved into the new Chapter House—completely renovated on the inside and many improvements on the outside—on August 14; they are thrilled with the new facility.

Improvements to the house:

- New wiring, plumbing and an asbestos-free house
- Reconfigured rooms and added space in the area above Mom Roberts' carport
- New kitchen cabinets
- The two south rooms in the basement have been joined together to create a large all-purpose room
- New roof
- New windows throughout the entire house
- The landscape has been completely replaced, along with the sod
- A new basketball court
- A new entry into the living room from the basketball court
- An eight-foot fence is scheduled to be installed around the south and west sides of the basketball court
- The house is now handicapped-accessible (required) with a suite designed for members with disabilities
- Additional space was available when the north stairway was removed, allowing the washer/dryer room to accommodate four new washers and five new dryers
- The second and third floors were reconfigured and all new furniture has been purchased
- The dining room has new tables and chairs
- The living rooms have the same furniture; however, the furniture has been restored

The cost of our renovation totals $3 million. The loan amount is $2.6 million. Total pledges written from the Lambda Chi brothers is $1,420,064. Unfortunately, participation is under 15%.

We tremendously appreciate the brothers who have committed to help pay for the new house. In addition, there were many who recognized the need and increased their original pledge amount. We desperately need others to join this campaign. The house is beautifully completed, but we have a large monthly loan payment. Currently, the active brothers are carrying the load on this project. They pledged $190,000 and are paying $19,000 per semester for five years.

Many of you have shared how Lambda Chi influenced your life, how appreciative you are of the opportunity to be a part of the fraternity, and talked of the lifelong friends that were made. Let's join together to provide that same experience for young men today and for years to come.

A cookout for the members and their parents, along with recruits and their parents, was held August 16. There were many compliments on the house. Hopefully, with the updated structure, there will be many young men interested in joining Lambda Chi and living in the new environment.

Included in the Gamma Rover you will find a capital campaign pledge form and return envelope. Please note the left side of the pledge form is for non-tax-deductible donations of any size and the right side of the pledge form is tax-deductible gifts totaling $10,000 or more. Please note the "Make Checks Payable To" at the bottom of each side, so that your check is made payable to the correct account.

We ask that you make a one-time donation or a pledge over a five-year period. Donors who make a gift of $2,500 or more will be recognized on a prominently displayed plaque in the Chapter House. Take a look at our donor list on pages 2-3 to decide on which giving level you want your name to appear.

Mom Carol Roberts has served the Chapter for more than 20 years. The Carol Roberts Society requires a gift of $1,000 or more; gifts can be paid upfront or in $200 installments for five years. These donors will also be included in campaign materials and on a plaque displayed in the new Chapter House.

Also, be sure to save the date for Saturday, October 26, and join us for the grand reopening of the Lambda Chi Alpha Chapter House. We look forward to seeing you there!

Brother Encourages Alumni Support

Matt Porter, FP 1615, Gives Back to Lambda Chi Alpha

Going through recruitment can be an incredibly overwhelming process, especially if you aren't particularly outgoing. Matt Porter, FP 1615, was quiet and reserved when he started school at the University of Oklahoma, and he joined Lambda Chi Alpha in an effort to help him break out of his shell. He ended up gaining not only confidence, but also some of the best friends of his life. "I joined because I had several friends that were members. I was timid coming into college and knew that they were a lot like me. When I was around them I became very comfortable. I didn't give consideration to other chapters. I made my best lifelong friends through the Fraternity."

Matt knew he wanted to give back to the organization that had given him so much, and the Building on Our Tradition of Excellence campaign was the perfect way to do so. "I want to give the same opportunities that I had to future generations." He also recognizes that Gamma-Rho Zeta's facility was in desperate need of improvement. "I just remember how bad of shape the house was in when I was there. If they needed it then, they definitely need it now, and I knew they could use the help."

Matt encourages brothers to get involved with the campaign, reminding them that every little bit helps. "I understand people are busy and finances are tight, but it doesn't take a huge commitment over several years if we can get enough guys to get us across the finish line."

Even though Matt and his family live in Houston, he still makes an effort to stay connected with his brothers and the fraternity in whatever way he can, whether it's football games or on Facebook. "It's important," he said. "I understand life gets busy, but we need to take the opportunity to be deliberate and set time aside for our brothers. The experience we had and the friendships we made are worth it."

Matt is the CFO for Xtreme Drilling and Coil Service, an innovative oil and gas drilling company. He helps the company manage finance and accounting functions, investor relations, capital markets, and helps to set strategy for the business. He and his wife, Olivia, have two sons, whom he hopes will be future Gamma-Rho Zeta members someday. In his free time he enjoys spending time with family, going to concerts, and attending sporting events. You can contact him at matt.porter@xtremecoil.com.

Lambda Chi Excels at the University of Oklahoma

Gamma-Rho Zeta Leads Campus

The Lambda Chi Alpha Chapter at the University of Oklahoma is remaining the light of the fraternity world as the fall semester starts. With a brand new house and a great fall associate class, the men of Gamma-Rho Zeta are very excited to set the bar on what being a Lambda Chi means.

UNDERGRADUATES EXCEL ACADEMICALLY

Last spring, our freshman class ranked fourth in academics with a 3.05 GPA; as a Chapter we placed third with a cumulative GPA of 3.17. We're so excited to see how the freshman class develops and to mold the incoming men into a group that understands and practices our values.

LAMBDA CHI LEADERSHIP

The upperclassmen of our Chapter are continuing to uphold the values of Lambda Chi in all that they do. Our leadership on campus shines brighter than ever as members of Lambda Chi hold key offices across campus. We currently hold the offices of OU IFC president, CAC chair, student body president, College Bowl chair, Big Event chair, OU Cousins student director, Camp Crimson orientation guide and operations staff, and many more positions that elevate us above every other fraternity.

PHILANTHROPIC EFFORTS

We are planning to hold our philanthropic basketball tournament, Swishes for Wishes, later this fall semester. Garrett Sutton, GP 2483, has taken the lead and already started with this year's programming.

RENOVATION A SUCCESS

Finally, the house renovation is fantastic; the grand opening is October 26, during Homecoming weekend. We are very appreciative to all alumni whom have donated, and we are confident this will put us even further above the other Chapters on campus. We encourage alumni to tour the completed renovations and hope this will create excitement in reconnecting alumni with Gamma-Rho Zeta.

BREAKING FROM TRADITION

Ross Powell, GP 2216, Supports Lambda Chi Alpha

Joining a fraternity is a tough decision for many young men, one that will stay with them for the rest of their lives. Ross Powell, GP 2216, thought the decision was made for him when he entered recruitment in 2006 at the University of Oklahoma because he was a two-time Sigma Phi Epsilon legacy. Surprising both himself and his family, Ross joined Lambda Chi Alpha. "I didn't really have an open mind about other fraternities. It wasn't until I went through formal recruitment that I realized Lambda Chi was where I needed to be," he said. "I felt like being a AXA was an accomplishment and an honor. I chose to be a part of something bigger than myself. It was an easy decision."

Ross works as the marketing director for Kirkpatrick Oil Company and is responsible for developing, planning, and executing the marketing plan. He believes his time in the Gamma-Rho Zeta Chapter helped him develop communication skills that are essential to his work now. "You'd be surprised how much you learn when you live with more than 60 men. I feel like that experience taught me how to deal with anyone and any situation. I didn't know how valuable that was until I experienced the same situations in the business world." Ross is also incredibly thankful for his experience with Barry Feuerborn, GP 1349, who mentored him as a professional and helped him obtain his job after graduation.

Spending all day, every day with his brothers and the fraternity formed Ross into the person he is today.

"When you're around so many all-American guys on a regular basis, it makes you want to be the best person you can be." So when he heard about the Building on Our Tradition of Excellence campaign, Ross knew he had to participate. "I met my best friends at 904 College, friendships and bonds that some people never find. This is irreplaceable and I couldn't be more thankful."

He hopes that his contribution will benefit AXA in the competitive Greek system at OU. "The Lambda house has needed help for a long time, but we've always been able to hold our own. It's exciting to think about how well we will do when the improved facility is combined with the guys in the house."

Ross stays in touch with his Gamma-Rho Zeta brothers on a regular basis, talking to at least 10 of them every day. He sends a big thank-you to Chad Kennard, GP 2236, for doing a great job of keeping their class together by organizing events and games. Their fantasy football league stays strong to this day.

Ross lives in Oklahoma City and spends his free time traveling, going to football games, working out, and doing whatever he can to get back together with the brothers. You can contact him at rpowell@kirkpatrickoil.com.
